DEDICATION

To the Mothers of the students of Central Catholic to show in our humble way, our sincere appreciation for their love and devotion, which they have so unselfishly given to us to make our education more complete.

FOREWORD

It is our aim to publish an annual, that will help the students, in years to come, to relive the happy days spent at C.C.

Although our accomplishments were not numerous, perhaps this volume may reflect the Catholic training that we have attempted to absorb in the four years now completed,

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Time, the subtle thief of mankind, has once again eclipsed our path; he has slowly but surely crept up on us.

Vivid memories, faint recollections of the happy days, blue days, trying days, tiring days, but always useful days in which we saw some new phase of life: these are the things it has left with us.

Little known was Central Catholic High School when the second class of its history registered in the fall of 1935. This group, destined to become the second graduating class, numbered thirty-four freshmen.

Many precedents were established by the first class of graduates—making it more easy for the following groups to advance.

From very modest beginnings, the two athletic teams—the football and basketball clubs—rose high in public favor and soon became formidable opposition with large schedules to fill.

Although these were the main diversions, those not athletically inclined found pleasure in a stamp club, which created a furor among the philatelists of the school. A ping-pong tournament also enlivened the first year of the present graduates.

Midway in the second semester the young men bowed their way into the social whirl with a "Party of Beauty" dance. A serious drama, "Our Football Team," served as an outlet for the dramatic talent. A school picnic dropped the curtain on the first year spent as freshmen.

During the three years spent as lower classmen, many changes were made in the school building, meeting with the whole-hearted approval of the student body. A biology and a physics laboratory, a typing room and a library, containing thousands of volumes, were added.

As seniors, the dream of four long years was realized—Central Catholic was basically founded. The band and glee clubs flourished under capable leadership. New clubs were formed for the entire student body—the chess club, the library club, and the science club.

The class of 1939 is now the second group forming the Alumni of Central Catholic High School.

SENIORS

H O T S

1. Richard "The Thinker" Seago going through his daily dozen.

2. Could it be "Frankenstein" or could it be "Scoop" Towner?

3. Louis Dhoore, "The Shorthand Expert".

4. Buschatz, Berndt, Hannan and Martin call it "Chess". What would you?

5. We couldn't omit the "honor students" Charles Beutter and Godfrey Buranich.

6. Snoozing Earl Rieke. Must have been a "late date".

7. Peeping Dick Feters. "Can I look too, Dickie?"

8. Shadows. Rumor has it, that one of the boys is "Little Dickie" Feters.

9. We give you the profile of Jack "Barrymore" Martin.

CLASS PROPHECY

h e

r a i l

Shy, retiring Richard Cyr is the foremost barker for the "Bearded Lady" in a world renowned circus troupe . . .

Just fifteen taverns past the West-end tracks we will find proprietor Louie Dhoore "rasslin'" with a tall drink . . .

Dick Seago, former budding journalist, has landed a job on The Ladies' Home Journal . . .

"Now this delicate ruby ring, reinforced in back---," finds Earl Ricke back at Central Catholic using sales pressure on senior class of 1950. (The shoe business was getting dull.)

David Thornton—stand-in for a totem pole in Alaska . . .

Ray Leliaert — chief technician at Logansport . . .

Former ladies' man, Frank Sosnoski, is a hermit in a secluded spot on "Lovers' Lane."

Charles Beutter is murdering poor, defenseless, innocent guinea pigs for scientific (?) purposes . . .

Surrounded by a bevy of wall-flowers, Dick Feters still continues to be the debs No. 1 elite in the social whirl . . .

Harmi (My name's Hulbert — what's your'n) Hulbert owns a 1,000 acre wheatfield in Montana.

Bob Towner has his own newspaper in Roseland — just one mile north of South Bend, on highway 31 . .

"Robber Baron" Jerome Ganser is still hijacking unsuspecting victims for gas money.

Jack Martin — still in college (almost ten years)—continues to plague his instructors for "just one more 100 mark on my card, please" . . .

Politicians are literally gathering in thousands of votes after graduating from Bernard Eberhardt's school, where he teaches them how to shake hands effectively . . .

Paul Berndt still calls on the Hannan household, yet he maintains that the bachelor state beckons to him . . .

Larry Heyde — corset salesman for Macey's of New York . . .

With the smell of the stockyards in his nostrils, John Raab threw caution to the winds to become head executioner for Swift's . . .

John "Kid" Wilmering, with that beautiful "baby-face" stare, slays anything that walks in skirts . . .

High up on the framework of the fifty-fourth floor of a building in construction, we can see our Regis Schumacher precariously balancing a blue print in his frail hands.

Through a crack in the tent flap we can discern Godfrey Buranich, making mysterious passes over a crystal ball as he predicts marriage to a handsome man for a fat lady. (Swami, Swami,—what a racket.)

CLASS WILL

I, Bernard Eberhardt, yield my position as foremost hand-pumper of Central Catholic to anyone in school with whom I have not shaken hands . . .

I, Louis Dhoore, regretfully pass on to Boyd Nusbaum my knowledge of "Now you see it and now don't" tricks . . .

I, Richard Seago, will my ability to borrow typing paper to anyone who had to buy his own this year . . . Sponger!!

I, Dave Thornton, desire to unburden some of my lankiness to Ralph Fuller . . .

I, Richard Cyr, leave to Paul Paden my charming ability to blush beautifully . . .

I, Robert Towner, gladly give to James Tansey my job on the South Bend News-Times . . .

I, John Martin, will any attractive features that can be gleaned from my face to handsome James Boland . . .

I, Raymond Leliaert, pass on my radio antennae and my flair for new ideas to Louis Miller . . .

I, John Wilmering, would like to spend a pleasant half hour with my best girl telling her all about Ferdinand the Bull . . .

I, Frank Sosnoski, will my legislative ability to Phil Meixel . . .

I, Dick Feters, sadly pass on to next year's Rotary representative my half-year meal ticket.

SCHOOL CALENDAR

the trail

AUGUST

- Vacation days going full blast.
- Doom — school appears in the horizon.
- "Aw rewar" to jobs, cottages, etc.

SEPTEMBER

- The 7th becomes "black" Friday — Registration.
- Rotarian Towner gets a free meal ticket in the Rotary Club.
- First day of school only 179 days left.
- Two new classrooms — sweatboxes — mechanical drawing and Freshman room — Seniors hold election — no, no ballot-box taxidermist, Sosnoski elected president — On the 23rd, the school went infantile — even Seniors! They witnessed "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Ten cents please."
- The three upper classes stare in wide-eyed astonishment at the size of the Frosh class.
- Mr. Orville Foster — a good friend of "Chykoffski" — organizes music at C. C. — Remnants of last year's S. A. C. choose new members. Nine cops now!

OCTOBER

- First Friday — Confessions, Communion, halos, and (im) pious looks.
- The classes go primitive at an Indian Lecture by Mr. Bragg.
- Central Catholic imitates "One-eye" Connolly at N. D.'s opening game.
- Seniors hold first dance. Fall (and I do mean fall) Dance.
- Mr. Hinton and Mr. Gases talk on Physics.
- The first crop of red propaganda (pink slips) was distributed to the amazement of many.
- End of six weeks' period. 16.667% of the school year is now behind us.
- Hallowe'en, FALse faces, and "false" faces.

NOVEMBER

- All Saints' Day — an oasis in the desert of the school year.
- Library Club journeys to Notre Dame for a "foo" pointers. No volumes missing after their departure.
- Armistice Day. No armistice between Brothers and students, though.
- Football season ends. Thank God.
- Mr. Clem Harrington becomes "Chykoffski's" friend. Mr. Harrington now leads the band and orchestra.
- A museum, (with coins in the collection) makes its debut in the library. Seems like there are lot of "studes" in the library all the time now.
- Thanksgiving. Stuffed turkeys, stuffed students, and just plain stuff.
- John Murray, (pardon me,) MR. John Murray wins the Anti-tuberculosis speech contest.

- Mr. Mahon and Mr. Hasley talk on science and literature, respectively.
- Another six-weeks period over. ONLY 120 days left to go.

DECEMBER

- December 8th. Feast of Immaculate Conception. There will be a slight interruption of one day.
- The Actors (?) present the "Nut Farm." — Monogram men get "theirs."
- The debaters debate and "bring home de bacon." (pun)
- Christmas, snow, cold, stuff, foo, etc.
- 23rd and Vacation. Thank goodness.
- All quiet on the C. C. front.

JANUARY

- 9th ends the "glorious interlude."
- Arbitration on class rings begins. Seniors' minds as changeable as the weather.
- 26th. End of half year. Exams plus report cards equals midyear nightmares. — Time out for recuperation.
- 27th. Going into the 2nd lap. Some fun.

FEBRUARY

- Dick Fetters takes over Towner's meal ticket. — Juniors take over on Lincoln's birthday. No, he didn't turn over in his grave.
- Prof. Cooney, of Notre Dame, gives points on betterment of the Trail.
- 17th. The wearing of the green.
- Chess Club makes its debut at C. C.
- Skating party. Splinters taken off the floor.
- Washington day program under "capable supervision" of the Seniors.
- 25th. End of the basketball season with the tournament in Fort Wayne.

MARCH

- Advertising hunting begins for the Annual. — More Exams. — Father McAllister lectures on vocations. — Cups, medals, splinters: Central Catholic Second Annual Basketball Tournament.
- Tuberculin tests. Seniors get "stuck."
- C. C.'s football hopes begin spring practice. — Brother Theophane also speaks on vocations.

APRIL

- 5th Easter vacation. Another oasis in the desert of the school year.
- Hams, eggs, parades. 9th.
- 11th. The oasis dried up.
- Father Stapleton gives weekly lectures at C. C.
- 28th. End of fifth six-weeks period.
- Drive for advertising ends.

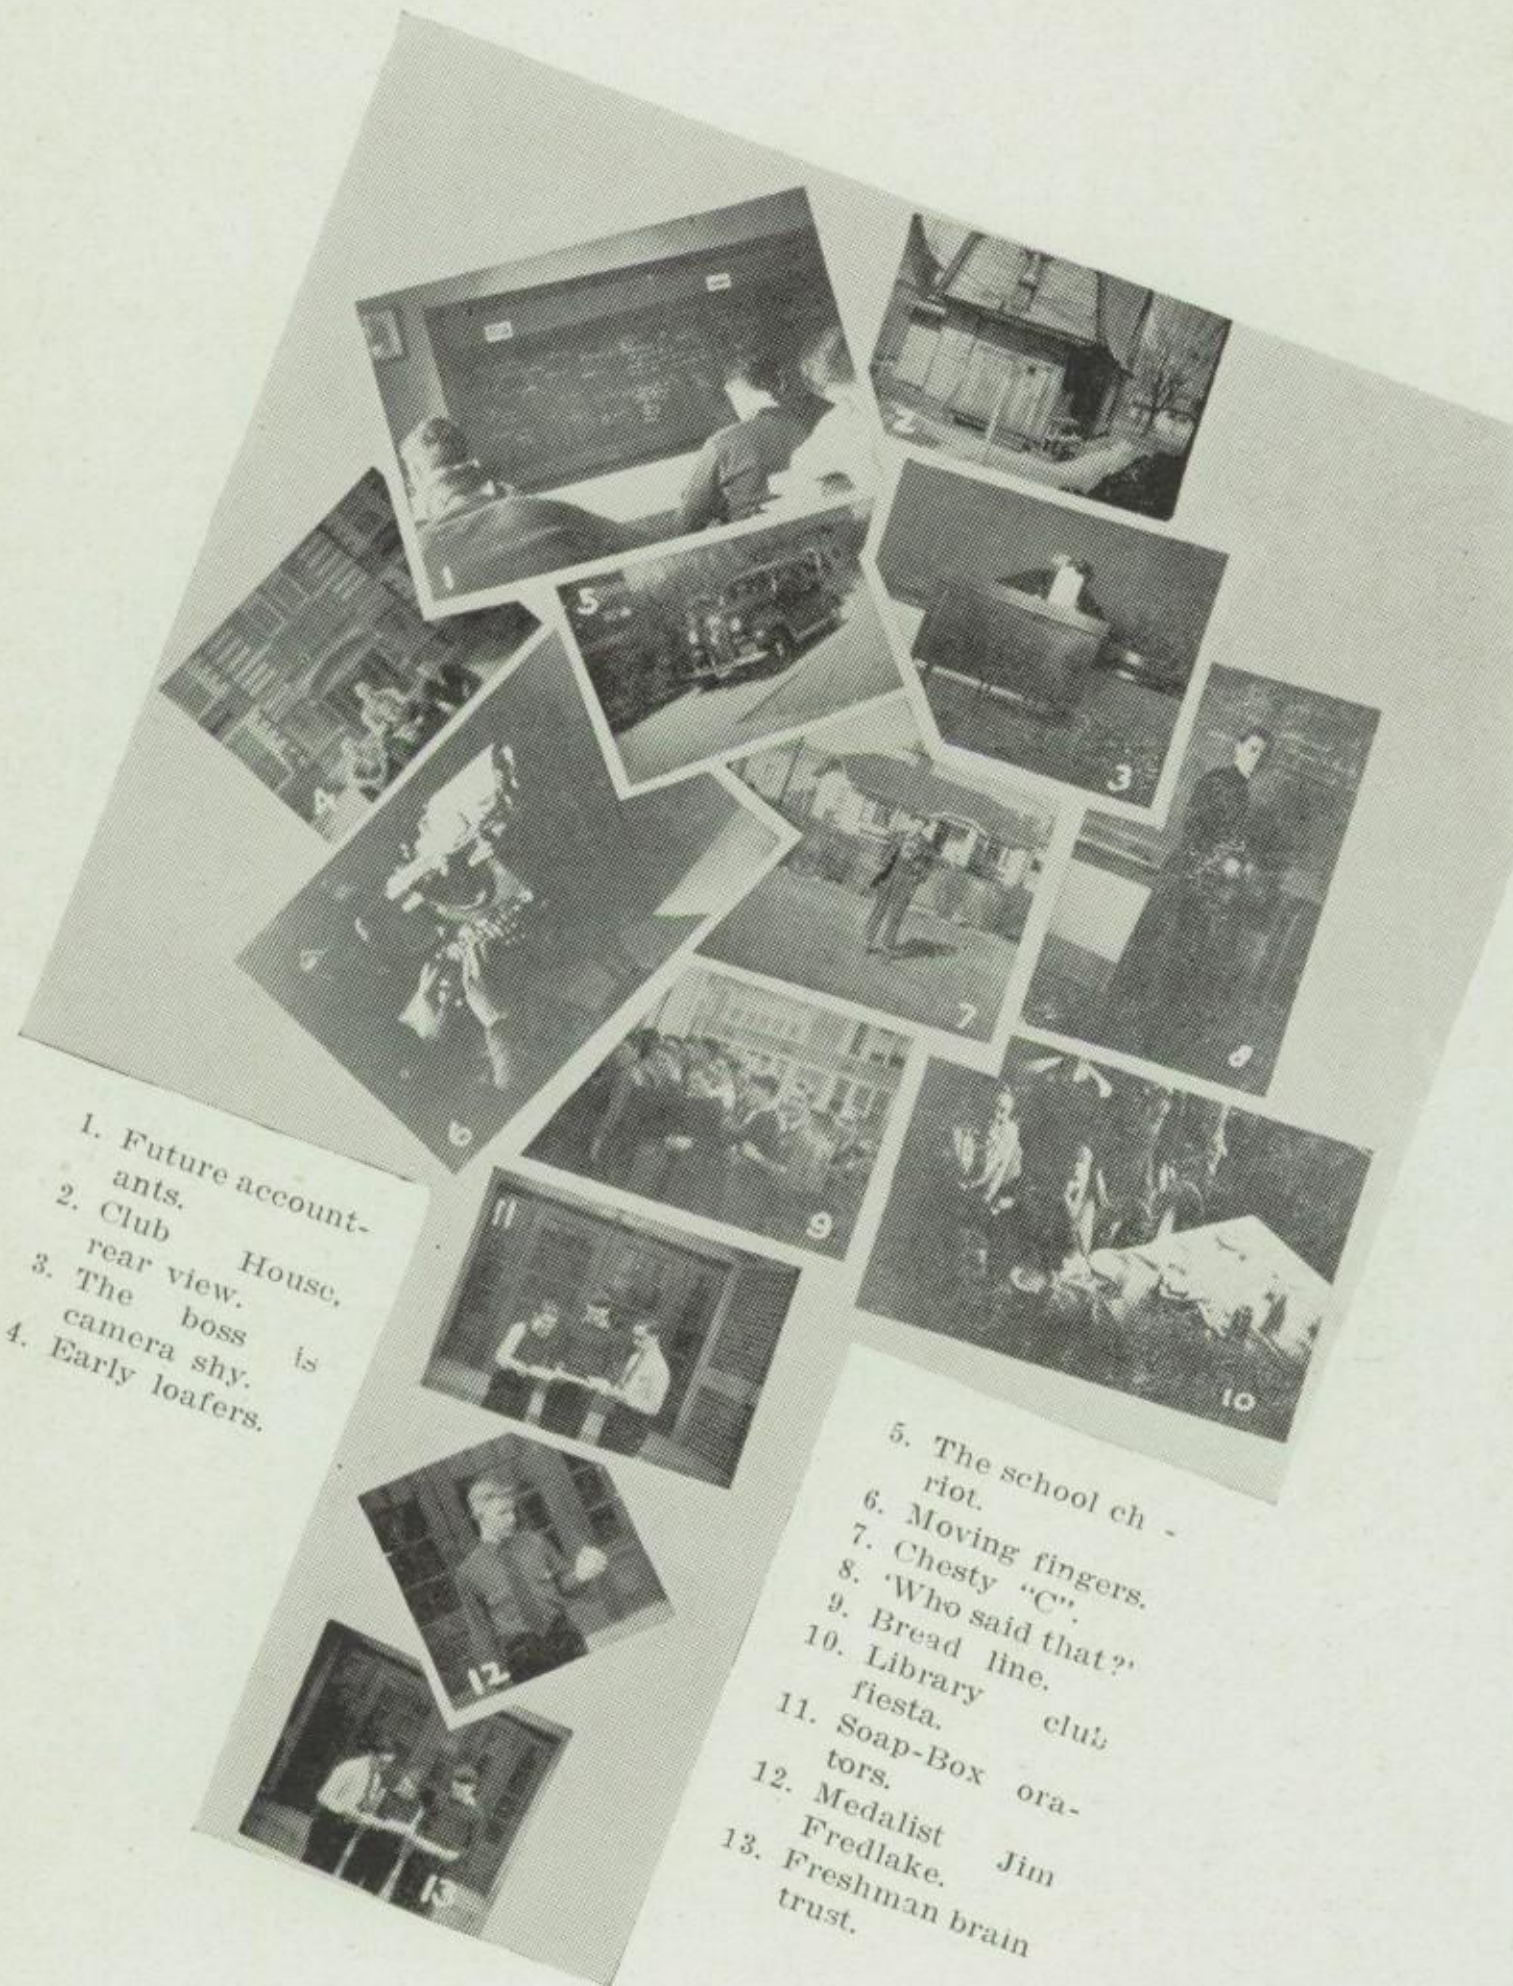

MAY

- 1st. Going into the stretch.
- Bingo party, 3rd. By Seniors, for Prom. — 17th Juniors and Seniors go "social" at the prom.
- 18th. Crowning of the May Queen of the S. A. C., at Pelican Lake.
- 24th, 25th, 26th. Seniors' final final exams. — Senior Class Day. Wills, prophecies; some fun.

JUNE

- 4th. The end of it all.
